DEMOCRATIC CONFESENCE, -At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee, held in the Court House, Ebensburg, on Wednesday, 15th inst., Capt. H. D. Woodruff was elected Delegate to the State Convention, to be held 11th June, 1867; R. L. Johnston and C. L. Pershing, Esqs., appointed Delegates to State Convention to assemble at call of Chairman of State Central Committee, and Wm. Kittell, John P. Linton and John Blair, Esqs., chosen Delegates to select Sen-atorial Delegates to the above Conventions. Saturday the 25th June was fixed for the folding of delegate elections. Convention to be held July 1st, 1867. Adjourned. GEO. C. K. ZAHM, Sh. Co. Com.

A BRACE OF ACCIDENTS .- On Saturday morning an unfortunate young man was found in a state of suspended animation on lligh street, his body stretched on the pavement and his head reclining against the front door of one of our business houses. Efforts to restore his wandering faculties were for a time rais, but at length he was raised to his fest, when, with a sudden effort, he broke from those who had him in charge, and rushing some distance, felt prostrate near Blair's hotel. His fall frightened the horse of Mr. G W. Lloyd, of Susquehanna township, one of our staunchest citizens and most enterprising lumbermen, causing the animal to give a sudden jump, which broke the girth and threw Mr. Lloyd into the air, falling on his back and shoulders on the pavement. As Mr. L is a man over fifty years of age and weighing 240 pounds it may well be imagined that his case was regarded with some solicitude by his friends. Dr. Lemmee, who was summoned without delay, son ascertained, however, that no bones were broken, and the patient will doubtless ere long be himself again. "Wash," upon being congratulated on his escape, good humoredly remarked that it wasn't much of an accident after all—only a "splash." The cause of the mishap—or rather the young man who was imbaed with the cause—was kindly provided for by the Sheriff, and has so far recovered as to be able to be out-are troubled with negro on the brain, the ladies, without distinction of party, have garden on the brain. Go where you will you see them is rapid motton, with seeds, or sprauts, or suckers, or something to plant. Everything they can get must be planted, which looks very much like "running the thing into the ground." A stranger barely escaped their clutches the other day by beating a rapid retreat, morely because his clothes lasked seedy! The ladies are for the most part intelligent upon every other question, but upon this subject they were a little bit crary—this and moose carastra. We bit crary—this and house cleaning. We overheard the conclusion of a dialogue the other day, however, which satisfied us that there is one young lady at least in this community sensible on the subject of gardening. Her mother was urging her at the time to fix the beds (the garden beds, of course,) and as a deriver resert exclaimed: "What will become of the garden when I die and leave it to you?" "Why, dear Ma," replied the affectionate daughter, "when you die—the garden and I—will both go into wexps!"

Medistr.—Somebody makes complaint that an immodest idea was conveyed in one of MacShane's letters to the FREEMAN. Our confidence in "Mac" is such that we pay but slight attention to his MS., but have since looked over his correspondence without being able to find anything in the least tinctured with vulgarity. If our readers take his words in their plain English meaning they will find nothing to make them blash. If, on the other hand, they seek for immodest allusions in everything they read, no compo-sition will stand the test. An old maid once congratulated Dr. Johnson on having no vulgar words in his dictionary. "True, Madam," retorted the intellectual monster, "but I see you have been looking for them."

P. S. Since writing the foregoing we learn that our modest critic was only a borrower. of the FREMAN. Subscribe and it will be

A CAMBRIAN IN IOWA,—We are in receipt of an interesting letter from our old Cambria friend, Mr. Wm. D. Hong. He informs us that many Cambrians are securing bomes in his neighborhood. Mr. H. is agent for the sale of large tracts of Western land, which he desires to show such of his old neighbors as emigrate in that direction. His post office is Millersburg. Iowa county, Iowa. He says that Spring wheat and oats have been in the ground for some time in his vicinity.

IMPORING CERRMONY.—The laying of the orner-stone of the new Catholic church in corner-stone of the new Catholic church in this place will take place on Tuesday aftercoon, June 4th. A large number of clergymen will be in attendance, and the sermon will be preached by Rav. S. Wall, President of St. Michael's Seminary. An immense concourse of people will doubtless be in attendance, as the ceremonics will be unusually grand and interesting.

Did you kyre see a greater variety of goods than is displayed at the Jewelry establishment of C. T. Roberts on High street? Clocks, watches, jewelry, musical instruments, photograph albums, school books, stationery, toys, tobaccos, cigars, gent's fur-uishing goods, cutlery, and a host of other things it takes our breath to think about, much less enumerate. Go and see for your-selves, everybody.

HUNTINGHON JOURNALISM.—A Scrap last week says:

"The present proprietors of the Hunting-don Journal say it was established in 1835 by A. W. Benedict, Beq., deceased. This is a missake. We worked in the office of the Journal in the fall of 1830 and till the spring of 1831, for Henry E. McConnell and John C. McCrea, who were then the proprietors, known as McConnell & McCrea, and who we believe established the concern one or

The editor of the Whig, we submit, is under a mistake in the foregoing article—and the Journal correct. We shall give, according to our recollection, a brief history of the early Huntingdon newspapers.

The "Huntingdon Republican" was started at an early day in Huntingdon, and published by James S. Raykov.

lished by James S. Barbour. Afterwards, as early we think as 1821, the two rival papers in Huntingdon were the "Republican Advocate," published by John Mullay, and afterwards by Mullay & Underwood, which afterwards by Mullay & Underwood, which was known as the Democratic organ, and the "Huntingdon Gazette." the Federal organ, published by John M'Cahan, and afterwards by his son, J. Kinney M'Cahan. In 1829, if we remember rightly, Henry L. M'Connell and John C. M'Crea started the first Anti-Masonic paper in Huntingdon under the name of the "Huntingdon Courier," and the name of the "Huntingdon Courier," and not the Journal, as Mr. Brotherline states. The Courier passed through several hands in its rather brief career, and in 1834 was published by the late Dr. Jacob Hoffman, under whose control it went down. In 1835, as the Journal states, A. W. Benedict commenced the publication of a new Anti-Masonic paper under the title of the "Huntingdon Journal." We recollect well the advent of Mr. Benedict to Huntingdon, as editor of The End.—Some of the Millerites prophesy the dissolution of all things earthly during the present month, and as there are not many days yet to go on it would be well enough for everybody to buy all they need at the cheap store of Mills & Davis, on High street, before that eventful period arrives. So don't put off till to-morrow what should be done to-day, especially when time and money are both at stake.

We reconced well the advent of Mr. Benedict to Huntingden, as editor of the new paper. As a declamatory partisan writer he had much ability, and soon gave himself and his friends some trouble by the severity of his personal attacks. He remained several years editor of the Journal, and afterwards commenced the practice of law. He had many good traits of character which will keep him long in the memory like the proposents.

LODAL CORRESPONDENCE.

JOHNSTOWN, MAY 20, 1867. Dear Freeman—The new Lutheran Church in this place was dedicated yesterday. A large concourse of people were in attendance, no services being held at any of the other Protestant churches. F. W. Conrad, D. D., of Philadelphia, preached the dedicatory sermon, and delivered a most eloquent and acceptable discourse. This handsome church edifice CANDIDATES.—Our exchanges are alive with announcements of candidates for the coming campaign. Cambria county don't appear to have any.

A fair but frail creature named Nancy Norris was taken to the Poor House the other day. She hails from New Florence, but was "splurging" about our town for several days and was finally committed for vagrancy. She is only about 17 years of age, but is a most pitiable object, and her career is another verification of the adage that "the way of the transgressor CARROLLTOWN, MAY 20, 1867. no law necessity should be be again excluded or postponed.

It is the painful duty of your correspondent to lament the unfavorable weather of the past three weeks, and the ill results that promise to follow to the agricultural interests of the country. Our farmers in this section are unanimous in their apprehensions of a total failure of many of their craps, heretofore their chief reliance, and many of them feel so much discouraged as to avow their doubts as to the usual return for their labor in any of the chief staples of this section. Not a grain of corn yet planted, in many instances oats yet unsown, and in so instance the usual amount of plowing or preparation of the ground for the planting of crops, awing to the constant rains and unfavorable weather which still continues. Yet "Hope, the Mr. Pircher a trial. He will be found charmer, lingers still behind," and it may be worthy of all that can be said or done in his behalf. ture. At least we may feel so, and if disappointed, we have time enough for grets when fears become realities.

The work at the addition to the church is progressing as favorably as the weather will permit. The stone work, under the charge of Mr. Fred. Suyder, is under full headway and ere long the foundation of the improvement will be complete.

Nothing unusual to disturb the equanimity and order of our town has recently a breach in the monotony of our lives here by the arrival to-day of the celebrated trained horses and the exhibition that is to be given of their docility and obedi-ence under the directions and control of professional horse tamers. IAGO.

IMPORTANT.—We were just about com-leting arrangements for going to pres-hen it occurred to us that we should by all means let our readers know that James M. Thompson, on High street, still keeps his complete stock of merchandsie up to the highest point in quantity and down to the lowest point in prices In this good work Jim deserves to be encouraged.

DRIED AND CANNED FRUITS .- In addition Darked And Canned Faurra.—In addition to his immense stock of staple goods Mr. V. S. Barker has recently received a prime let of dried apples, peaches, prunes, currants, canned fruits and vegetables, raisins, etc. Whatever is needed for personal comfort or family consumption may be found at this establishment at the very lowest prices.
